

Hergenroeder To Run For Congress

Treasurer Announces New Scholarship Aid Program

In an attempt to avail more high school seniors of a college education, Rev. Anthony J. Zeits, S. J., Treasurer of Loyola College, has announced that the Administration is endeavoring to establish a more extensive scholarship program for this purpose. As a further aid to incoming students, a student loan service, which will be available through the Treasurer's office, is to be initiated in the Fall. The deferred payment plan, which is presently in operation, will likewise be continued for any who wish to make use of it.

Father Zeits and other members of the Jesuit Society here in Maryland have met with a fair degree of success in their attempt to interest organizations and Catholic laymen to finance the education of boys who would otherwise be unable to attend Loyola. Since November 1, the combined efforts of all concerned in this project have accumulated $14,000 in unexpended scholarships. An outstanding contribution to this fund was made by the Diocesan Holy Name Society in the commitment of a four-year grant.

Student Scholarship Fund

Presently, the Diocesan Holy Name is planning to run an annual raffle in the Fall for the benefit of scholarships in Catholic schools throughout the state. If the plans are carried out, Loyola College will participate in this raffle with the help of its students. As a result, the student body will be able to establish a fund known as the Student Scholarship Fund since the proceeds collected by participating bodies are to be apportioned between the participant and the Diocesan Society.

Rev. Anthony J. Zeits, S. J.

Applications for scholarship will not be judged solely on the basis of scholastic achievement. Financial need, character, academic perseverance and co-curricular interest will have bearing on the decisions.

Student Loan Service

In conjunction with the scholarship program, the college is making available through the Treasurer's office a student loan service to any student who cannot meet his financial obligations during his college career. Under this program, the student will be allowed to borrow the money necessary for his education from a bank. One year after graduation or withdrawal from college, he will begin to pay back on his loan in payments covering a ten year period. The deferred payment plan, which is now in effect, allows a student to meet his financial obligations in installments if the total bill cannot be met at once.

Debaters In D. C. Tourney Next Weekend

On March 18-20, the annual Cherry Blossom Debate Tournament will be held at Georgetown University. Loyola is one of the schools invited to the tournament. Representing Loyola will be Sam Ady and Hal Sanks on the affirmative while John Tormey and James B. O'Hara will uphold the negative. Mr. Francis Voci, moderator of the society, will accompany the team in the capacity of a judge.

The Loyola debaters gained an even split in their contest with various schools in the Philadelphia area. In these debates held on Feb. 19-20, Loyola defeated LaSalle and lost to Villanova. The contests with Saint Joseph's, Immaculata, and Temple ended in draws. The Loyola debaters were Paul Rogers and Dan Mackey on the affirmative, Maurice Reeder and Dick Otenssek upheld the negative.

Loyola Debaters Tied

In a Cardinal Gibbons League debate, Loyola gained a split with Georgetown Visitation. The debate was held in Washington on Feb. 25. Representing Loyola were James O'Hara and Hal Sanks on the affirmative while Ken Bowers and John Tormey defended the negative. On the same day, four Loyola debaters were the guests of the Naval Academy. Lawrence Awalt and Michael Leakan defended the affirmative for Loyola while Bill Schamehorn and Bruce Alderman defended the negative.

Georgetown Here

Loyola was host to the debaters from Georgetown University on Thursday, March 4. This was a debate of the Cardinal Gibbons League. Dan Mackey and Richard Otenssek defended the affirmative for Loyola. Yesterday, Loyola entertained the debaters from Mount Saint Mary's College, Emmitsburg in another league debate. Upholding the affirmative for Loyola were Dan Fall and Bob Heymann.

Special Meetings Held

The Debating Society held two special meetings during the last two weeks. On the evening of March 3, an informal meeting was held at the home of Richard Otenssek. The meeting was devoted to a discussion of the debate topic, in order to give participants of the forthcoming tournaments a greater knowledge of the topic. Last Wednesday at 11:15 A. M., Mr. William Hahn of the Business Department at Loyola, addressed the weekly meeting of the society.

TKA Tourney Scheduled

The Loyola College chapter of Tau Kappa Alpha is presently making plans for its annual high school forensics tournament. Bill Hicken, president of the campus chapter of this national honorary forensics fraternity, has announced that the tourney is tentatively scheduled for Saturday, May 8. Last year's tournament drew over 115 participants from 25 high schools in this area.

Alderman Takes Political Dive; Files For House Of Delegates

ALDERMAN

Bruce Alderman, popular senior and member of the Student Council, has filed with the Maryland Board of Supervisors of Elections for the Democratic Primary on June 28th. Alderman is seeking election from the Third Legislative District to the House of Delegates, the lower house in the Maryland Legislature.

Alderman, a Business Administration major, is registered to enter law school in the Fall. In an interview with the GREYHOUND, the candidate enumerated several of the reasons why he believes himself qualified to hold the post he is seeking.

Civil Defense Promoter

For the past two years, he has devoted several hours a week to the Baltimore Civil Defense Organization. As a member of the public relations division, he gives weekly talks before civic, church and social groups on the topic of civil defense, and each Sunday he is the announcer for a 15 minute radio show on CD highlights. He has devoted all this time to the city as a volunteer, since he received no pay for his services.

In addition to this CD work, Alderman has been active in the 319th Inf. Regiment, Organized Army Reserve, and has participated in many extra-curricular activities. He is a member of the Bellarmine Debating Society and has achieved national and statewide recognition in several oratorical contests.

Would Be Youngest Member

Alderman, if he is elected, will be the youngest member of the House of Delegates. Although now only 21 years of age, he already has an active interest in public affairs. This interest comes, perhaps, from his family, since his grandfather for many years held city and county offices in Florida. Alderman believes that, although interest in politics has developed greatly in the past few years, too many persons do not carefully watch the activities of their state legislature. He feels that the addition of a few vigorous and interested young men will benefit the state tremendously, and for that reason has begun his campaign which will end at the polls on June 28.

HERGENROEDER

Henry R. Hergenroeder, Assistant Professor of Business Administration at Loyola, has announced his candidacy for Congress. Mr. Hergenroeder, a Democrat, will run in the Seventh Congressional District. The incumbent is Rep. Samuel N. Fiedel.

Mr. Hergenroeder is currently spending his sixth year at Loyola. He was in the Armed Forces during World War II and now holds an office in his family's small business firm.

Phenomenal Success In First Try

In the 1952 Democratic primary, Mr. Hergenroeder ran for Congress without organization support and polled only slightly fewer votes than the organization-backed candidates. In political circles, such a showing by a relatively untried newcomer into politics was considered phenomenal.

Thus far, the Hergenroeder candidacy is the only one announced for the seventh district. In a statement issued to the press,

Henry R. Hergenroeder

Mr. Hergenroeder pointed out that he was filing for office at this point to feel out popular support.

"Tell A Friend" Campaign

According to Mr. Hergenroeder, his campaign will be one of the "tell a friend" variety. He and his advisors have great faith in a well-planned personal contact type of campaign, featuring many speaking engagements and much door-to-door work by volunteers.

The candidate has already stated his views on several issues. He has released a statement calling for closer contact between congressmen and constituents. To accomplish this, he suggests weekly or monthly telecasts on the state of the union.

Because of Mr. Hergenroeder's background in small business, in the Armed Forces, and in teaching business administration, he is especially interested in the economics of government. He urges more business-like foreign loans, favors extension of the present social security laws and increased low-cost housing. He also believes in an FEPC to prevent discrimination of minorities in hiring and firing. Mr. Hergenroeder promises "there's a vigorous, hard-hitting campaign in the offing".

First Lecture In Gorman Series Here On March 21

On three successive Sunday nights, March 21, 28 and April 4, the second annual Gorman Lecture Series will be presented by the Loyola chapter of Alpha Sigma Nu. These lectures will be held in Cohn Auditorium and will begin promptly at 8:00 P. M.

The student subscription price for the three lectures will be $1.50. If any student wishes to bring a date, she will be admitted for an additional 35 cents. These student rates will also be available for the evening school, but all others will be charged $2.00 for the series.

Philbrick In Featured Role

Featured in the final lecture on April 4 will be Herbert A. Philbrick, former F. B. I. counterespionage and author of the popular book, "I Led Three Lives". Mr. Philbrick will speak on Communist tactics, and his lecture will be filled with incidents from his role as an F. B. I. counterespionage in the Communist party.

The opening lecture, on March 21, will be given by Mr. Douglas Knox of the State Department's International Information Service and Voice of America. He will speak on the overseas information program and the attempt which is being made to pierce the Iron Curtain and counteract Communist propaganda in Asia and Europe. His lecture will also feature a recently released film on overseas information activities, as well as a recording of a typical VOA broadcast.

Food Problem To Be Discussed

On March 28, the speaker will be Miss Florence Reynolds, who is Information and Educational Officer of the U. N. Food and Agricultural Organization. Miss Reynolds, who has traveled all over the world studying and lecturing on the food problem, will be returning to the Eastern States from a lecture series in Canada and the West. She will also show a number of colored slides on living conditions and food production in Asia and the Middle East.

A reception will be held after each of the lectures at which free refreshments will be served. For tickets or any further information, see Bruce Alderman or any of the other members of A. S. N.

Editorials

During the course of the past few months, the administration or the student body has, at one time or another, given your editors ample opportunity to whet their pens in journalistic poison and come up with a few derogatory, or at least biting, remarks. Perhaps the onset of Lent has weakened your editors' prowess for rooting out the evils which exist in this institution of ours, or perhaps these evils have gradually disappeared.

Word has been circulated to the effect that Loyola students were seen patronizing the recent One-Act play contest, the last few home games of the basketball team, and even the Mason-Dixon Tournament. Posters and signs exhorting the students to take an interest in the college have been popping up in increasing numbers lately. The administration certainly isn't helping our cause either, when it steps forward with loan services and increased scholarship funds for the benefit of the students.

All kidding aside, it's quite apparent that student interest is on the upswing, and it would appear that the fever has even spread to the faculty. Recently, your editors have seen some of their suggestions and criticisms finally bear fruit. The Boosters Club, whose foundation we advocated, is thriving, the Student Council is getting prompter action on its proposals, and more students are taking a personal interest in the college. For us, as editors, the situation is tragic in that it leaves us with little to complain. As students among students, however, we think the outlook is decidedly brighter.

Clubs And Activities

• History Academy

The History Academy held its first meeting of the second semester on Wednesday evening, Feb. 21th, at the home of Bill Thymans. Following the general topic of national and international dictators, Bob Heid spoke on the late Louisiana senator, Huey Pierce Long.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Sam Ady in Lutherville, Md. Two dictators will be discussed; Tammendine by Sam Ady, and Pt. Coughlin by Chnd Pumphell.

• Academy Of Management

On Thursday, March 4, the Academy of Management and Accounting presented a lecture by Mr. John Mehan, Student Coordinator of the Society for the Advancement of Management.

Mr. Mehan spoke on the procedures and methods of time and motion study used by the industrial engineer. He also offered a prospective plan for student membership in the S. A. M.

Mr. Mehan was the first in a series of guest lecturers who will visit Loyola College under the sponsorship of the Academy of Management and Accounting. The Academy is also planning a series of motion pictures on modern industrial techniques.

• Music Club

The Music Club, a comparatively new organization on the Loyola campus, holds a weekly meeting every Monday at 3 P. M. in the Xavier Lounge, and strives to foster an interest in the classical music heard today. The club holds no business meeting, and omits a check of regular attendance.

The music played is not only of the classical type. This seems to be the popular conception of the student body. The famous jazz and popular artists are presented along with those of semi-classical and classical music. A majority of the music, however, favors the semi-classical style.

The recordings are played over a high fidelity sound system; the orchestra is literally brought within the room. If you have never heard high fidelity recordings, you are missing out on a truly great modern invention.

If you desire to become a member, contact Ben Frederick, president, or Father O'Rourke, moderator.

• Chemistry Club

The Loyola College Chemistry Club held its monthly meeting on Wednesday, March 3, 1954. Membership discrepancies were discussed, and the Club will inaugurate a drive for A. C. S. membership among the undergraduates.

R. C. Crippen of the Crippen Laboratories will discuss instrumentation in modern research one evening during the week of March 22nd. All are invited to attend the lecture.

Tom Griffith, social chairman, announced that the club's annual banquet will probably be held at the Blackstone Apts. sometime in May.

Sodality Plans Eighth Queen's Ball For May 8

The Junior Sodality has announced its plans for the eighth Annual Queen's Ball to be held on May 8. Music will be supplied by Ted Zamecki's orchestra. Donald Burton is the General Chairman of this important social function.

The Senior Sodality is now holding a daily Rosary in the Chapel. All are invited to join the Sodality in the Rosary at noon.

On March 6 the Sodality held special First Saturday devotions. Mass, a sermon, and Rosary marked the occasion. The Sodality will hold these devotions again on the First Saturdays of April and May. All students are invited to take part in this fine way of honoring the Blessed Lady.

The Loyola Sodality, in conjunction with the other members of the Sodality Union are planning an orphans' picnic and a Day of Recollection to be held in May.

Candidates for Sodality membership have just completed a fifteen week Candidates' Program. Given under the direction of Junior Sodality moderator Rev. Francis X. Knott, the program has consisted of a series of lectures on the nature and methods of the Sodality. Candidates have had to go through a rigorous set of interviews and tests to be accepted into the Sodality.

• Physics Club

At the regular meeting of the Angelo Secchi Physics Academy, held on Tuesday, February the sixteenth, Walter Seihyl delivered a paper on the "Application of Spectroscopy in Astronomy". It was unanimously declared to be the most interesting of the year.

Seihyl showed the increasing use of spectroscopy for the determination of the velocities and directions of stars, the determination being afforded by the shift in the spectral lines. This shift, brought about by the Doppler Effect, led to the discovery of double stars and the theory of the expanding universe. The spectroscopy has been used to classify the stars according to their temperatures.

Lectures for the subsequent meetings are being planned, as is a trip to the Naval Observatory and the annual meeting of the American Physical Society.

• Math Club

On Sunday, March 14, Mr. Francis Cullen, Mathematician for the National Plastic Products Co., will address the Saccheri Mathematics Academy at 7:30 P. M. in the Student's Lounge. He will speak on the "Use of Probability in Quality Control", and the opportunities for employment.

'Hound "Hires" Yardley, Cartoonist For Sunpapers

Interview by

Hal Sanks and Jim O'Hara

To those who have never seen him in person, Richard Q. Yardley of the Baltimore Sun is quite a surprise. In his daily humorous cartoon, Mr. Yardley pictures himself as a short, pudgy individual wearing a beret. Actually, he is extremely tall and his huge frame supports the weight of several thousand crab cakes. He wears no beret, or at least, we saw none.

We located Yardley on the fifth floor of the ultra-modern Sun building in an office piled high with books, sketches, ink and brushes. Over in a corner was a drawing board turned black with many years of spilt ink, and behind the board was Yardley, hunched over a cartoon for the next day's paper.

Political Cartoonist

When we inquired of Yardley how long he had been with the Sun, he answered "since 1923, off and on." He has been turning out almost daily political cartoons since Duffy left the Sun for the Saturday Evening Post. Yardley's "melancholy task" as he calls it, is to paint a couple cartoons daily, one of which is printed in the morning paper.

In addition to his regular work with the Sun, Yardley has also become somewhat famous as a seafood connoisseur. He has become a regular at the various oyster roasts about town and at present is leading a one-man campaign for 10¢ crab cakes. Mr. Yardley also informed us that a few years ago during a trip to Europe, he sampled the sea food of many different countries. This he quite enjoyed, especially since the Sun paid for it, "but don't tell them since they don't know it." Mr. Yardley informs us that he was surprised to find that there does exist some sea food which compares favorably to Maryland's.

"Q" For Quincey

There were two questions about Yardley which particularly bothered us. First, we wanted to know what the middle initial "Q" stood for, and second, we inquired if the pay for his job was as bad as one might think from his cartoons. Yardley answered both quickly. The "Q" stands for Quincey, and the pay, he averred, "ain't too damn good."

In addition to the daily political cartoons, Yardley has also had his work published in several books, including ones by two Baltimore authors—A. Aubrey Bodine and Gerald W. Johnson. At present, he is completing a mural in the new addition to the Johns Hopkins Hospital. In conjunction with the work there, he received a medical examination, and they told him to cut down on crab cakes. Yardley promised to faithfully ignore the advice.

Your Student Council

The various committees assigned at the end of the first semester have given their reports and it appears that this semester may produce far better results as far as Student Government is concerned. The Executive Committee is in the process of re-vamping the Council's constitution. When this is completed, a special constitutional meeting will be called to vote upon the revised edition.

The Freshman Activities Committee turned in a superb report listing the progress and lapses of the committee, for which we thank Dick Hunt, Tom Borch and Bill Flattery.

Marking System Discussed

The Council recently spent an entire session discussing the present marking system. Much was said on both sides of the question, but it appears the present system is nationwide and considered by most colleges to be the most practical one.

Debate has been lengthy concerning honor medals awarded to the top men in such courses as Philosophy and Ethics, with the comparison of the grades from different professors showing how one group usually produces the winner simply because its prof is an easier marker. An alternate system of awarding the medals has been proposed but has met considerable opposition. The question will probably be settled at the next meeting.

ROTC Preps For Reviews

The Spring drill season will begin this Wednesday and all ROTC men will feel the bite of the lash as they are subjected to further discipline. Under the watchful eyes of Colonel Vanderroot, Colonel Jordan, and Lieutenant Patterson, the cadets are to be primed for several reviews.

At some time during the next twelve weeks, a review will be held for the annual formal inspection by leading army officers of this town. Spotless uniforms and clean rifles will be the order of the day. A review for the Queen of the Military Ball will also be held.

The final review of the year will be the President's Review. Medals and awards earned during the year will be presented at this time.

VALENTINE TIDBITS

Bob Preller is rumored to have sent a valentine to Lieutenant Patterson, but Mr. Toland informs an agent that it was he who received the nicety from Robert . . . Jack Burke took the hearts and flowers occasion to show his mammoth hallmark to all his teachers. He is said to be uncommitted at present. MORE LEAVES FROM THE IVY WALLS: Bernie Hopkins has been outsparking the sparkplug with his elaborated brush . . . In a recent foray in the Senior Lounge, these mailings occurred:

a) Fred Buchness wiped the floor with the southerly side of his pants, after having been set upon by two rowlies (Tom Reynolds and Al Rabassa).

b) Tom Reynolds suffered a singe in the lower sweater region when struck by a Buchness firebrand.

c) Al Rabassa won both chess games.

Tim Mallone is not feeling too "George" lately . . . Phil tells an agent that Emmett McGee spends his uniformed hours in front of the local grade school, recounting the harrowing tides of Korean duty . . . Charlie Winder's sport coat has a strange history. It seems he was the one that was chased . . . Tom Malesky asked to be excused from class in order to report for his physical. The academic prof replied, "Tell them you are interested in your studies." . . . Jerry Kamper left St. Joseph's in Emmitsburg with rosier cheeks and redder lips . . . Charlie Kesmodel was sorely harassed after the game Saturday night, but Dick Holz and taller companion say they have little to fear.

The following is an intercepted missive which washed ashore during a recent political science class:

"Snappy Jerry Dunn has been seen this spring sporting a nifty cocoa pin-striped suit, casually unbuttoned. His brown and red, rectangular patterned tie is held sharply to his "Arrow Dart" by a glistening red sinker. His matching belt and shoe combination is a symphony in calfskin. The glistening polish of his shoes reflect the conservative splendor of his fuscina stockings." . . . St. Mark's girls' basketball team has the added asset of Jim Vaeth as referee . . . Joe Mead's blouse received an alteration due to an alteration at a recent party . . . Always did say it looked like a hole in the wall . . .

SIGNS OF SPRING:

Sergeant Dunleavy's voice getting deeper.

Dr. Hoyt wearing bucks (spring?).

Bob Hawkins drinking his first legal beer.

Ken Wright dreaming of his.

Joe DeSantis getting tickets for the Jukebox Jamboree.

Bo Menton's analysis of the Jamshehpur brand of Jamboree goes something like this. "There weren't many Catholic priests there, only Jesuits." . . . Dan "the phalid playboy" Whiteford plans a clandestine duel with donkey jawbones at fifty paces.

BALTIMORE . . . MARYLAND

A Profile Of Ray Gaeng, On And Off Stage

"My friends . . . We are here today to renew the college career of that most eminent school leader, Mr. Raymond Gaeng!" (no offense meant to the late F.D.R. whom Ray impersonated last Loyola Nite). Indeed, Ray Gaeng has become such a popular figure on campus over the past three years, not only because of his dramatic ability, but also for his active participation in practically all student affairs, that your Greyhound staff felt him deserving of schoolwide recognition.

Received a Drama Scholarship
Then, too, Ray has had anything but a sheltered and uninteresting life. After graduation from Mt. St. Joe in 1946, he received a scholarship to a school of drama in New York State. The full, black-haired, 25-year-old Junior commented during the interview that it only took him six months to realize the numerous shortcomings of this institution, and he modestly added, "That's probably the reason why I won the scholarship!"

Shortly after Ray returned home, he entered the service. As a G.I., he spent two years overseas in Germany and France working (?) in the Finance and Special Service Department of the Army. In 1952, he was discharged after three years of voluntary and one year of involuntary, imposed service.

President of Dramatics
Ray enrolled at Loyola in '52 and earnestly resumed his college studies. Last Fall, he received the Susan Murphy Gold Medal, awarded to the sophomore student who attains the highest scholastic average in all courses. Ray has also found time to assume the duties of president of the Musk & Rapier Dramatic Society. He has also starred in such successful Evergreen stage productions as "Billy Budd" and the recent one-act play, "Lucifer-At-Large." Many will also remember his fine performances as master-of-ceremonies at the last two Loyola Nites. Aside from his dramatic tasks on and off campus, Ray is also a member of the Student Council and an active supporter of the college's social activities and sporting events.

Ray Gaeng

Future in Law

After school, Ray is employed by V. M. Schlutter & Co. as a real estate agent. The company's slogan is, "When you're in the gutter, don't stutter, call Schlutter!" Ray is a B.S.E. student with an English major. As for the future, he plans to do graduate work in law and will also have an eye on television as an outlet for his enthusiastic dramatic talents.

Love: Downfall And Salvation Of Savage Man

by James R. Furd

All of us, by the time we are old enough to legally order a bottle of beer, have had some sort of experience in the field of romance. If you have not, please consult your physician immediately. This experience is agreed upon to be normal and healthy by church, state, Jack Armstrong and Arthur Godfrey. But after the year twenty-one A.D. (ante disaster), some members of the bachelor clan become dissatisfied with the usual parties, dances, and weekend dates and begin to yearn for the rice, the threshold, and the ivy covered cottage.

This, despite the phony sneer of the suede-jacketed, pseudo-tanned, sun glass-wearing, Hollywood harem keeper, is a good thing. Since we are Christians, we believe that one wife at a time and one life at a time are enough to keep a man on the straight and narrow, regardless of what Manville and Company may say.

Thou Fool!

According to law, polygamy has had its day. The lend lease idea of marriage is no longer with us. But there are still those who make an attempt to skirt the law in the somewhat confused atmosphere of a civil court. As a matter of fact, a person's prestige is raised to a considerable degree in our film capital in direct proportion to the number of wives he has had, abandoned, or led astray. These fellers just don't want to hear about that neverchanging natural law of ours.

Hope for the Hopeless

Much has been written about the beginning, middle, and end of marriage, but for those who lack initiative, who are too timid, or who are suffering from some sort of glandular disorder, hope still lies ahead. This chumpion of the mentally deranged goes under the misleading title of "Lonely Hearts' Clubs."

Not only, so say the ads, will they get you a mate but will also arrange the wedding, whether it be among the one hundred and one professed Christian groups or one of the more exotic types, ranging from sun worshippers to holy rollers.

To accept such an offer is to admit your capacity for attaining a truly decent marriage is nil. But I suppose that there are a few individuals on Skid Row who would give up their daily ration of turpentine to meet the girl of their inebricated dreams.

• In days gone by, young men in shining armor ruled the age. Today, a new kind of man rules the age—America's Knights of the Sky, the Aviation Cadets! They rule from on high, in flashing silver-winged Air Force jets . . . a gallant band that all America looks up to! Like the knights of old, they are few in number, but they represent their Nation's greatest strength.

Frosh Cagers End Season With 103-33 Win Over American U.

by Jim Cole

Season's Records

The Hound Freshmen extended their winning streak to nine straight games by defeating the Mt. St. Mary Freshmen by a score of 103-33 on Sat., Feb. 20 at the Evergreen gym.

The Frosh cagers got off to a slow start, but with the rebounding of Jim Staiti and George Leyh and with the shooting of Harp Fitzgerald and Jack Benzing, they began to pull away. The Hounds had just too many guns for the bewildered Mountaineers and in the second half, they made a rout of the contest.

Clean Sweep

The Greyhounds made it two in a row over their Charles Street rival; Johns Hopkins, by defeating them at Homewood 53-39. Leading pointmakers for the Frosh were Jim Staiti with 19 and Harp Fitzgerald with 14.

The Hound Frosh then ended their season in a blaze of glory by defeating American U. by a score of 103-33. The game was played on Saturday, Feb. 27, at Evergreen. This seventy point spread is the highest racked up by the Hound Frosh this year.

At the outset of the game, surprisingly enough, the Eagles jumped off to a 5-0 lead, but from then on, the Green and Grey took charge. The period ended with Loyola leading 29-11. As the game progressed, it became obvious that A.U. should have stayed in bed, for even with the help of two players borrowed from the varsity, their six man squad still could do no right.

Pill-Pelters Picked To Hold Golf Crown

Subvarked by four returning veterans, Loyola's perennial golf champions must again be rated as definite threats for this year's Mason-Dixon race.

Led by Captain Don Pearson, the veterans include Gary Waldorf, Jim Hoeck, and Vern Steedman. Dick Snyder, a junior, is expected to add strength to this group. Other newcomers who will be fighting for one of the six positions include Jim Rorhe, Jack Flattery and Bill Childs.

Last year's team lost only one match, that a close decision to the University of Maryland. The golfers were undefeated in league play. In the Mason-Dixon Tournament they won by no less than 51 strokes.

Callahan And Kelly Snare Mat Diadems

by Dave Bryan

On February 26 and 27, the Loyola wrestling team competed in the Mason-Dixon Conference championships. The Greyhounds emerged with two individual victories: Ned Callahan in the heavyweight class; and Ed Kelly in the 135 lb. class.

Ned, who was favored to take this year's crown after dropping a close match last year, obtained a bye in the first round of competition. In the semi-finals, the likable senior poured it on his opponent and emerged victorious with a decision. On Saturday, in the finals, Ned showed fine form in pinning his opponent from Catholic University.

Ed Kelly who is only a sophomore, had a little longer way to go to become champ than did Callahan, competing in four matches overall. In the first of these the only headed youngster easily defeated his opponent on a decision. Ed had no trouble in taking his afternoon match, either. Saturday saw Kelly in good shape while envisioning his foe for the championship.

Paul Flynn scored in the tournament as he placed fourth in his weight class. John McCann was Loyola's only other scorer when he also came in fourth.

The entire team, with the exception of Callahan's, return next year to improve their record.

Trock Turnout Large; Meet Towson Apr. 1

Thirty-four randibutes turned out to answer Coach Bill McElroy's first practice call. From this group which was the largest in years, McElroy hopes to replace many of his top point-getters who left via graduation.

Captain Ed Colbourn and John Benzing, returning veterans, were scoring leaders a year ago. Other returnees include Dick Barringer, Al Meenan, Harry Lentz, Bob Curran, Bob Heid, Bernie Weigman, Mor Rozel and Al Sullivan.

New men with good prospects are Jim Vueth, Dick Hena and Bill Smith.

Coach Phillips Keeps Active Despite Injuries

by Jerry Rime

Frequent inquiries have been made by Loyola fans, who have watched our promising Freshman play this year, concerning the identity of their coach. They have observed the well-dressed, nail-biting man finish his task and retire to the darkness of the west stands to watch the varsity game. In the event that some students may be equally in the dark as to his identification, I want to introduce him to you.

Bill Phillips was born on August 2, 1931 at Niagara Falls, New York and moved to Baltimore during the following year. He attended Polytechnic and graduated in 1949. Bill was active athletically at Poly, playing basketball and baseball. St. Paul's School was his next academic step and during his one year there he found time to play football and basketball.

Bill Phillips

In September, 1950 Bill entered Washington and Lee but soon transferred to Loyola because he favored being nearer home. In his first year here, Bill played freshman basketball. During the spring he was handling the slants of Loyola pitchers. Thus the scene was set for his first athletic mishap. As he stepped to the plate against Villanova he was beamed by the visitors' pitcher and was rushed to the hospital where he remained for two weeks.

Knee Injury

The following year found Bill playing for the B squad in basketball. The season was nearly finished and our subject was having a good year when fate struck again in the form of a knee injury, which still requires a lance. When spring rolled around Bill decided to try his hand at Larrosse. As the season progressed the name of Phillips appeared in the line-up quite often at the attack or mid-field post. Against the University of Maryland's near-impenetrable defense Bill scored one of Loyola's two goals.

This brings us to the immediate present. Realizing that his knee would prevent him from playing basketball this season Bill asked Lefty if he could be of any assistance. Thankful for the offer, Lefty assigned him to help with the Freshman team. Bill in his initial coaching endeavor guided the team to an impressive log of 14 wins and 2 losses.

Praises From Lefty

Head coach Reitz is quick to acknowledge the work done by Bill and feels that the seeds which were planted will best show the fruits of labor in the next few years.

Although hesitant to name any one as his star, Coach Phillips claims that "Red" George "Red" Leyh has shown the most improvement.

Seriousness is one element in Bill's character not always perceived by the casual observer due to his outward happy-go-lucky appearance. Nevertheless, the Ph.D. student is majoring in Political Science. Bill has attended the Marine Corps training camp during the summer and hopes for a commission in June, 1955.

Congratulations are the order of the day to a fellow who handled a thankless job to help the school. Coach Phillips, we need more like you around Loyola.

Streaks Defeat Yo-Yo's 45-43

Jim Pait's set shot with five seconds remaining in the second overtime enabled the Sophomore Streaks to edge the Yo-Yo's 45-43. In this thrill packed game for the intramural championship the Streaks had to come from behind to gain the tie that sent the game into overtime.

Early Lead

The Yo-Yo's jumped off to an early lead as Bob Heid's driving layups paced the seniors to a 16-10 first quarter lead. At this point Ed Cox started hitting on his sets which resulted in the Streaks enjoying a slight halftime lead, 21-19. The seniors' superior height enabled them to keep up one of the running Streaks who well deserved their name. The third period ended with the Streaks on top 30-29.

Early in the last period, the Yo-Yo's started a surge and finally grabbed the lead from the Streaks. However, this was short lived, for accurate foul-line shooting sent the game into overtime. In the first extra session, the Sophs froze the ball for almost the entire three minutes but missed on their shot. In the second overtime however, Jim Pait hit on his shot to win the game.

GYM JOTTINGS

by Jim Cole

With the winter sports season drawing rapidly to a close, congratulations are due to many of the teams and players of Loyola. To Joel Littleman who sparked the varsity fire with his prolific point-making and who made the M-D All-Star team; to Ned Callahan and Ed Kelly, undefeated matmen during the regular season, who carried Loyola's colors to the top in the annual Mason-Dixon Wrestling Tournament at Towson; to Lou McCann, captain of the tankmen, who is one of the outstanding swimmers in these parts; to the Freshman team as a whole, for their excellent record; to the Sophomore Streaks, who made it 2 for 2 by winning the intramural basketball league; to all of the players who carried Green and Grey colors this year, and who, by their hustle and spirit gave credit to the school; and last but not least, to Coach Dutch Schulze of American U. on setting a new gym record—four technical fouls in forty seconds.

It was reported that in a recent intramural game between the Streaks and the Rambling Rebels, fire hoses had to be brought out to break up a riot. It seems that the Junior Rebels brought the ball all the way up court and scored the tying basket in one second (the timekeeper was a junior). The Streaks finally won in a sudden death overtime... It has been rumored that the Freshman basketball team wants to play the intramural All-Stars. After eleven straight, they're probably tired of winning and want to get beat... Strange things are happening here. —a Cris-Craft was found in the swimming pool a few days ago—who put it there?

Mounts Humble Hounds In Finals; Hittleman Sets Tourney Records

by Jim Greenwell

With Sal Angelo and his cohorts playing an inspired brand of basketball, Mount Saint Mary's climaxed the fourteenth annual Mason-Dixon Conference tournament by downing a fighting Loyola team 84 to 65 at Evergreen last Saturday evening. The Mounties, somewhat of a disappointment during the regular season, as they failed to live up to expectation, found themselves in the tourney. Sal Angelo, 1952 All Conference center who slipped to the second team this season, played like the Angelo of old as he led his mates to victories over top-seeded Roanoke College and Baltimore University's fourth-seeded club, preliminary to the finals.

"Exciting Contest"

Loyola met the Mounties by virtue of victories over Hampden-Sydney and Johns Hopkins University. The Hopkins-Loyola affair was the most exciting contest of the year as Joel Hittleman won it for the Hounds with a jump shot in the last eight seconds of play. All who saw the contest will agree that it was well worth the price of admission.

The Mounts opened up a 25-18 lead in the first quarter and were never headed the balance of the wny. Angelo turned in his best performance of the year as he flung in 30 points and grabbed 28 rebounds, only one less than the entire Loyola aggregation snatched. When Angelo wasn't sniping from his pivot post, the Mount's backcourt men were driving in for layups.

"Records Broken"

Undoubtedly the most outstanding performer in the Mason-Dixon

Veteran Tennis Team To Face Heavy Schedule

Although a heavy and rugged schedule is facing the tennis squad, Coach Vince Colimare is confident of a successful season. With the exception of McGee, who graduated last year, the entire team is returning. Captain Joe Lacy will again take the number one spot.

He will be followed by the number two man, Waide Howley, a sophomore. Other veterans fighting for spots include Hugh Mende, Bill Sturm, Frank Dickson, Mick Mohler, Bill Taymans, Dan Whiteford and Ed Ellison. Freshmen Skip Chard and Walt Schneid will also strengthen the team.

Conference during the regular season and tournament was Loyola's own Joel Hittleman who continued his record-breaking habits. He annexed two of Jim Lacy's tournament records by amassing a total of 79 points (old record, 69 points) and 33 field goals (old record, 27 goals) during the three game span. His 30 points in the finale matched the output of center Angelo. Other commendable Loyola performances were turned in by Dan Wheatley and Bob Benzinger. Laconie Dan turned in the finest defensive effort of the tournament as he held Jack Sullivan, the Mount's great frosh star, scoreless from the floor. Benzinger's ball-hawking tactics and clutch shooting were a key factor in the nerve-wracking Hopkins triumph.

Charley Wenzel, Terp Alumnus, Is Lacrosse Coach

by Vince Smith

Whenever a Loyola attackman tried to score against Maryland in the past few years, he has been faced with some husky, rough defensemen. One of these past nemeses is now our coach. He is Charles E. Wenzel, a well-conditioned brawny fellow with a lot of lacrosse savvy. For four years Charley played on the Terp varsity, earning a letter each year. His defensive ability enabled him to earn a position on the Maryland Lacrosse Club with whom he envorted last fall.

Attended Poly

Charley was born and bred in Baltimore. He graduated from Poly where he played on the basketball team in addition to the lacrosse ten. While at Poly, he played at the mid-field position, which should help him in his coaching profession. After two years in the Army, the new coach was discharged, and he entered the University of Maryland.

Going to Run

When asked if he had any plans for this year's edition of the lacrosse team, the 25-year-old mentor replied, "I don't know any of the players personally, and therefore I can't make any prediction, but one thing you can be sure of is that they will be in shape." So you fellows trying out for the team had better be ready to run.

The new coach is single and is presently assistant manager of the Baltimore Convention Bureau.

Swimmers Win M-D Tournament; McComas Stars

by Louis Dittenritter

Led by senior captain Lou McComas, perhaps the most versatile swimmer in the history of the school, Loyola's natators swam to their fourth straight Mason-Dixon championship by easily outpointing Catholic University, second place finishers 67-42. Randolph-Macon with 17 points was in third place while Lynchburg scored a single point for a last place finish.

McComas set two conference records as he ended his brilliant swimming career at Loyola, and established a new school mark by scoring 243 points during his four years of competition. This broke Jerry Rooney's old mark. In the 150 yd. individual medley, Lou knocked 1.5 seconds off his old mark. He also set the pace that enabled the 300 yd. medley relay team (McComas, Bracken, Simansky) to set a new standard.

Bracken Stars

Freshman Jim Bracken, one of the most promising swimmers ever to come to Loyola, won both the 100 yd. free style and the 200 yd. breast stroke in addition to being the middle man on the record-breaking relay team.

Larry Donegan, a consistent winner all year, copped a first place in the 440 yd. free-style and placed second in the 220.

Medley Champion

The one meter diving championship went to freshman Elmer Medley with Jack Burke coming in fourth. Pat McDonough, Fred Buchness, Fred Schildwachter and Frank Simansky combined in bring Loyola's 400 yd. free-style relay team home ahead of the field.

Other men who scored in the championship meet at Loyola include Gil Wheeler who was second behind McComas in the 150 yd. individual medley, Fred Schildwachter who gained a second in the 50 yd. free-style and a fourth in the 100 yd. dash. Simansky was third in 100 yd. free-style and Ray Penn captured third place in the 220.

Line Senior

Only McComas will be missing next year from this team which won five of its nine meets against top-flight opposition. Coach Bill Klarner's natators opened by defeating Lynchburg College and then on the following day dropped a meet to the University of Virginia. The swimmers went on to win meets from Morgan and Villanova before losing to the Hoyas from Georgetown. Catholic University and Dickinson college were other teams that were defeated. Without the services of Bracken, the swimmers dropped their final two meets to LaSalle and to Bainbridge.

GREYHOUND SPORTS

LOYOLA OF THE EAST

Running With The Hounds

By Bo Menton, Sports Editor

No team wanted to win so much nor fought so hard as did that scrapping St. Mary's club last Saturday night. If we had to lose the championship game, we couldn't have lost to a more deserving team. They played like real champions.

It was tough to lose, but it was a lot harder for those seven seniors who were sporting the colors of Loyola for the final time on the hardwood. Captain Jerry Chadwick, Jim Seidel, Terry Ahearn, Joe Lacy, John Benzing, Dan Wheatley and Joel Hittleman played their last college game before that sellout crowd of 1550. In the world of athletics, it seems that, despite your many other triumphs, that one last game, your swan song, remains in your memory. This team did their best with the material they had. Although they were humbled in their final effort, they bowed out fighting to the end.

Hittleman Ends Brilliant Career

Somewhere in that vast throng on Saturday night sat a man whose presence on the court could have made the difference. I speak of Tony Pistorio, now on active duty with the Coast Guard. Although Tony may come back to lead a future Loyola team to glory, this was his team. He played and worked with this group for three years.

Before leaving the record of the team of 1953-54 to antiquity, we must acknowledge the play of the brilliant shot-maker Joel Hittleman. True, it takes five men to play the game, yet when the going got tough, number 26 was the one to watch. How fitting it was that he should score the final basket made by the team of 1954. It's a shame Hittleman didn't bow out of collegiate ranks before the tremendous ovation which he so well deserved.

But while laurels are being distributed to the graduating seniors, it would be an oversight not to mention the performances turned in by Dan Wheatley. The Douglass High graduate, through his ability and agility, has consistently impressed opponents and fans alike. For services rendered to the team and to the college, we owe "Mr. Whoats" a vote of thanks. Through his untiring efforts as an athlete and student Dan merits more praise than the academic remarks inscribed on his diploma can express.

Callahan and McComas Victorious

Loyola's only other winter sport senior athletes ended their careers in a blaze of glory. Neil Callahan, a three-letter man and captain of two varsity sports, concluded his wrestling days by winning the Mason-Dixon heavyweight championship. Lou McComas, tabbed by Coach Bill Klarner as the most versatile swimmer Loyola has produced, broke two records as he gained two individual medals and was a member of the winning relay team in the Conference championships.
